

A Lesson in Neuroscience – The SCARF Model

Welcome to the July newsletter.

Winter is well upon us here in Australia and I feel it is colder than more recent past years. Although I sense I will be challenged by those who live or come from the Northern hemisphere who will chuckle at what we in Australia call winter. It's all about adaptation.

This month we delve into Neuroscience – a fascinating field of discovery.

Neuroscience is confirming so much about human behavior and providing us with valuable insights we can apply to the real world. The beauty is that we do not have to be neuroscientists to understand or better still to apply the learnings. Read More
